TERRIBLE INDIGESTION.

E. J. Jenkins Has a Remedy That He Guarantees to Promptly Relieve All Stomach Distress.

People go on suffering from little stomach troubles for years and imagine they have a serious disease.

They over eat or over drink and force on the stomach a lot of extra work.

But they never think that the stomach needs extra help to do extra work.

If these people would take Mi-o-na tablets with or after meals it would be a great big help to the stomach in its strain of overwork.

No matter what you eat or drink Mi-o-na tablets will sweeten your stomach and stop gas belching in 5 minutes. The heaviness disappears and the stomach is greatly aided in its work of digestion.

And Mi-o-na not only promptly relieves all distress but if taken regularly will absolutely cure indigestion by building up the flabby overworked walls of the stomach and making them strong enough to digest the most hearty meal.

E. J. Jenkins sells and guarantees Mi-o-na.

The price is 50 cents a large box.
Leading druggists everywhere sell Mi-o-na. Test Sample free from Booth's Mi-o-na, Buffalo, N. Y.

"IN A BAD WAY."

Many a Bryan Reader Will Feel Grateful for This Information.

When your back gives out; Becomes lame, weak, or aching; When urinary troubles set in,
Your kidneys are "in a bad way."

Doan's Kidney Pills will cure you.
Here is evidence to prove it:

Mrs. H. P. House, Franklin, Texas, says: "I had severe spells of rheumatism and at such times my kidneys pained me intensely. I had almost unbearable pains in my back and was often obliged to take to my bed. I took treatment from several doctors and received slight relief from the rheumatism but my kidneys still pained me. Hearing many people in town speak highly of Doan's Kidney Pills I procured a box. After using them a short time, I received great relief and I have no doubt that if I continue taking them, I will be completely cured. Doan's Kidney Pills certainly are an effective remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts.

Baffled.

Two brothers were once at Count ton Moltke's house at an evening party. Both were captains of the general staff. The general came up to a group of gentlemen, one of whom was one of the brothers. After joining in the conversation he said to the latter:

"Just tell me who is that tall officer near the fireplace on the other side. I forget his name."

"That's my brother, your excellency," was the answer.

A smile stealing over the general's face suggested the idea that he had not obtained the information he wished. Some time after the general went to another group of people and there joined the officer whose name he had inquired. Suddenly the others saw him turning away, with the same smile on his face.

Afterward, when they inquired from the young officer what the general had asked him, he replied:

"He asked me who that officer was over there."

"And what did you say?"

"I said that he was my brother?"

The general gave up inquiring the name of the two brothers for that evening.

Wanted to Take.

Mrs. B. believed in infant baptism, but for some reason that rite was not performed for Tommy till he was some four or five years old. While the ceremony was in progress the mother was very much gratified with Tommy's behavior. He seemed duly impressed with the solemnity of the occasion and remained with bowed head for some time after the sprinkling had been done.

"The angel!" exclaimed the mother.

"The little dear!" said a good sister as she went up to give him a "God bless you" and a pat on the head. But just as her hand was descending with that benediction a very wrathful and unangelic countenance was turned upon her, a pugilistic little fist delivered a paralyzing blow on her biceps, and the indignant Tommy exclaimed,
"You git away from here!"

Of course he was led out in disgrace and questioned by his horrified mother.

"Why, don't you know she would 'a' rubbed all the baptizing water off before it would 'a' had time to soak in?" explained Tommy, who from his point of view was fully justified.—Los Angeles Times.

CANINE JUSTICE.

Eskimo Dogs Seem to Have Laws of Their Own.

In his voyage of polar exploration Commander Flah observed among his dogs a sort of government quite independent of that of their keepers. They were of the Eskimo variety and were trained to work in teams. In their general conduct, however, they acted as a community, and their rules had reference to the common good. There was no penalty less than that of death.

During the period of darkness we lost eight dogs. Three of them, splendid large animals, were killed by their companions. The other five either wandered off on the young ice and were blown away or were killed by the pack at a distance from camp. Every dog was known by name.

It is a curious fact that when one dog has antagonized the others the only way to save him from destruction later on is to chain him. Then the other dogs let him alone. Unfortunately for us, the dogs that seemed to incur the enmity of their fellows were the large, strong animals, the bullies and fighters.

There seemed to be a degree of justice in their judgments. From close observation I found that the dogs generally forgave a bite on the head or body, but that an attack on the legs seemed to be considered foul play and must be paid for by the life of the offending canine. The whole pack united in his execution.—Youth's Companion.

VIRTUE IN SMOKING.

One Man Who Now Has an Argument
Handy For His Wife.

The wife of a Topeka man objects strenuously because her husband is a confirmed smoker. He is never happy without a cigar or a pipe. The other morning she gave him a ten-dollar bill and told him to buy several things for her. He pushed the bill into his coat pocket and rushed out of the house to catch a car.

He found that he had to wait a few minutes at the corner, for the cars were off schedule that morning, and then he proceeded to light a cigar. But he found no matches—all of his pocketcigs were bare of them. Suddenly he happened to think that he also missed the ten dollar bill. A hurried search disclosed that it was gone.

He turned right about and retraced his steps. Just as he got in front of his home he happened to look into the street, and there was that "ten" tumbling around in the wind. His wife saw him go and pick it up, and she demanded an explanation. He promptly told her how looking for a match had caused him to discover that he had lost the bill.

"Now tell me there isn't any virtue in smoking!" he snorted as he puffed out his chest.—Kansas City Journal.

Where Women Do All the Work.

The smallest dependency of France is the Ile d'Hoedie, situated at the east of Belle Isle. Its population is 200.
They do not speak French, except the curé and the schoolmaster, but Celtic, and they are provided with food at an inn managed by the women. Fishing is the principal industry. The profits are shared out each year among the inhabitants. The men live on soup and fish and smoke pipes with lobster claws for stems. The women do all the hard work—get in the harvest, look out for wreckage and gather seaweed, from which they extract soda. The island has no streets. The houses are of mud. The islanders have a yearly feast in the early part of October. The island possesses a good water supply.
The governing body is composed of the ten ancient of the place under the direction of the curé.

The Villain's Teeth

The two sets of false teeth looked just alike, but one set cost $10 more than the other. "There is a lot of extra work on those expensive teeth," said the dentist. "They are made for an actor who always plays the part of heavy villain in melodrama, and he has to have teeth that he can hiss with. I experimented on three different sets of teeth before I got the combination. Somehow the nice, even teeth that I usually turn out wouldn't permit the sibilant 'ss-sses' that he needs in to escape with sufficient venom. You wouldn't believe how much tinkering it takes to lick teeth into shape for the 'ss-snas' and 'od's bloods' to sound just right. Of all the people I ever made teeth for the heavy stage villain is hardest to fit."—New York Press.

What Is a Gentleman?

I'll have to give you the real definition of a real gentleman: "A man that's clean inside and out; who neither looks up to the rich nor down on the poor; who can lose without squealing and who can win without bragging; who is considerate of women, children and old people; who is too brave to lie, too generous to cheat and who takes his share of the world and lets other people have theirs."—New York Sun.

He Was Wise.

"It seems queer that she ever took a fancy to him. He isn't at all the kind of man one would expect her to admire."

"I know, but he always had a way of noticing it when she happened to have on a new hat or a gown that had just come from the dressmaker's."— Chicago Record-Herald.

Tommy's Question.

Tommy—Papa, when a thing is bought it goes to the buyer, doesn't it?
Tommy's Papa—Yes, my son, Tommy.
—Then how is it that when you buy coal it goes to the cellar?
